from 1946 to 2007*

Vancouver, BC – (Release Date TBD) – Xlibris, the world's leading print-on-demand self-publishing services provider, announced today the release of Green Mattress Under the Stars, a new book about unusual travel stories and experiences authored by Eric Sorila-Rothberg.

Green Mattress Under the Stars brings to readers an enduring look back at the memorable global travels of the author who had little to no money to spare along the way. Readers will discover the very details of his exploits that covered varied locations such as Antarctica, Canada, Colombia, Greece, Mongolia the Philippines and Samoa, to name a few. It reveals that Sorila-Rothberg became a sailor in Argentina, climbed the peak of Kilimanjaro, took part in a cycling expedition in Japan, got robbed in Laos and so much more. Professor Sven Soderlund with a Ph.D. from the University of Glasgow read the manuscript and wrote; The book is a page-turner since at the conclusion of almost every episode he leaves us with the question, "How can you top that?" or with the exclamation, "That's incredible!" Ultimately, this book will give readers, especially travel and adventure enthusiasts, countless hours of learning and entertainment.

About the Author

Eric Sorila-Rothberg was born in Jyväskylä, Finland in 1944 and immigrated to Canada at age twelve. After becoming a sheet metal journeyman in Montreal, he worked across Canada in the trade. In 1966, he traveled to the West Coast where family members followed later. They settled down, but the author continued to travel.

At age thirty-two he tackled an academic challenge and in 1986 graduated from the University of British Columbia with a degree in history. The study of history, world travel, and photography have formed an interesting combination in his life, crowned by meeting a kindred soul in 1970. The author and his friend have traveled together frequently within 40 years. Both have experienced total depletion of their shoestring budgets at times in which, a lawn in a park or on a field has served them as Green Mattress Under the Stars.
